DEPUTY COMMISSIONER

Nov. 1, 2024

Greetings,

The Department of Criminal Justice Training is proud to offer the 2025 training schedule, which includes more than 135 course options and 855 classes to meet your professional development needs. Our staff has incorporated your input to increase our online offerings while maintaining a variety of in-person courses distributed among 27 locations across the Commonwealth.

The most significant change in the 2025 training catalog is the addition of Law Enforcement Basic Training in Western Kentucky. In collaboration with the city of Madisonville, DOCJT will begin training recruits in Spring 2025 at the Madisonville Police Department Regional Training Center and plans to break ground on a new DOCJT training facility nearby later in the year. This historic initiative will not only reduce travel time for recruits in the western part of the state but will also free up basic training seats at the Richmond campus.

Class registration will begin at 9:00 a.m. on Friday, November 15, 2024, through the LETRS portal. You will have two weeks to review the schedule and find your classes before registration opens.

As DOCJT continues to expand the use of Blackboard as a learning management tool, it's essential that all training participants bring a computer for coursework, even if the class is taught in person. Computers will be necessary for completing assignments, accessing training materials, and completing assessments.

Thank you for your service to our communities and for allowing us to serve you through training. Please reach out to Loriann Schwartz at (859) 622-2909 or Loriann.Schwartz@ky.gov if you have any scheduling questions.

Respectfully,

Chip White | Assistant Training Director

APS is the first course in the Leadership Development for Sergeants or First-Line Supervisors. Students are expected to complete all reading and writing assignments and to actively participate in practical-based exercises designed to develop or enhance their supervisory abilities. Students can expect assignments that will require them to perform activities during hours outside the normal classroom times. The learning outcomes for this course will be for students to apply situational leadership and demonstrate an understanding of constitutional and administrative law, emotional and social intelligence, change, ethical decision-making, problem-solving, emotional survival, and public speaking in their role as a supervisor. Students must be capable of moderate physical activity; therefore, students on light or restricted duty are not eligible to attend. An agency Class A uniform (business suit and tie if not assigned to uniform duties) will be required to dress on certain course dates. Due to demand, Corporals and persons on promotional lists are not eligible to attend.

All requests for registration will go on a waitlist and chosen by the instructor.

IMPORTANT: Agencies are responsible for completing a personnel change request under "Forms" in LETRS that reflects the attending officer's current rank.

The Active Shooter Response course is meticulously designed to enhance participants' expertise and capabilities in effectively countering active, mass-murder threats. This course equips students with the requisite skills and knowledge to react swiftly and decisively when confronted with such critical situations, employing hands-on training methodologies.

This course elevates active-shooter preparedness to a new standard by integrating immersive and dynamic interactive drills, along with scenario-based exercises that closely replicate real-life scenarios. The curriculum of this course is comprehensive, delving into a range of tactical subjects, including single officer and dual officer building searches, as well as close quarters battle (CQB) techniques. Furthermore, the program places a significant emphasis on the roles and responsibilities of responding officers in such high-stress situations.

ADVANCED LATENT PRINT DEVELOPMENT

40 Hours

Fingerprints are often quite compelling circumstantial evidence in a criminal trial. Before this evidence can be introduced in court, it must first be located at a crime scene and collected. This course will provide patrol officers and investigators with the knowledge and skills they will need to perform this task. Topics will include chemical developing and the use of alternate light sources for the development of latent fingerprints.

BASIC OFFICER SKILLS

40 Hours

This course will cover high liability and critical areas of law enforcement. It will include defensive driving, basic firearms, defensive tactics and vehicle stops. This course is intended as a refresher training course for previously trained and experienced officers.

NOTE: This course does require the intermediate/moderate physical capabilities associated with firearms training (e.g., positional shooting from kneeling to standing and standing to kneeling), emergency vehicle operations driving, and defensive tactics related to handcuffing and other techniques.

NOTE: This re-certification training is exclusively for peace officers who are employed or appointed by a law enforcement agency and must be certified to meet KLEC training requirements for active certification purposes mandated by KRS. This course is intended as refresher training and certification of skills for officers who have been academy trained in Kentucky and are returning to law enforcement after a break in service.

Required Resources: Laptop, Operationally safe emergency vehicle equipped with functioning emergency equipment as defined by KRS, Gun-belt, Body-armor, Agency issued or authorized primary handgun with three (3) magazines, Eye and hearing protection, Ball cap for use during range activity.

This class will provide students with information on investigative factors to consider when reopening “cold” sexual assault investigations. The course will cover investigative background work, including investigative planning and skills. Additionally, the course will include interactive components that allow officers to (a) review and plan for their own cold case investigation, and (b) practice trauma-informed notifications and interviewing with trained actors.

The 8-hour online pre-course assignment will lay the foundation for the remainder of the course. This section consists of two modules - "Working the Case I" and "Working the Case II" from the SAKI Virtual Academy (sakitta.org).

COLLABORATIVE LEADERSHIP

40 Hours

This course is designed to expose and imprint the principles of Collaborative Leadership with leaders in a public safety organization. Students do not need to be appointed to, or promoted to, a position of authority of their respective agencies. Students will be required to work jointly on projects and be exposed to opposing arguments to develop strategies to address current issues. Emphasis will be given to creating a goal and vision-driven approach across the organization for issue resolution. Students will view issues from the stakeholder's position, not the interest of those determining the outcomes through the use of case studies from both the private and public sectors.

This program is structured for small to medium size law enforcement agency administrators and managers. The purpose is to provide the students with contemporary theories, management techniques, and leadership skills enabling them to perform more effectively and efficiently in their positions as community leaders. The course prepares the leaders of today for the challenges they will face in the future. The law enforcement functional areas that will be addressed are: problem identification, analysis and solving; personnel administration; operations and fiscal management; policies and procedures; legal concerns; and organizational behavior/culture. Topics emphasized throughout the course include leadership, ethics, executive writing, and public speaking. The program requires a high level of motivation, completion of projects/assignments, and the commitment to complete the entire course. The CJED course is a challenging and rewarding educational experience. The CJED Leadership Association Officers review all applications and recommends the selection of attendees to the Department of Criminal Justice Training. The learning outcomes for this course will be for students to develop an increased level of confidence in the performance of executive duties to include public speaking, budgeting, executive writing, and organizational management.

REGISTRATION DEADLINE for this course, which runs from September 2025 to December 2025, is April 30, 2025.

DEFENSIVE TACTICS INSTRUCTOR

40 Hours

This course has techniques found in PPCT, Krav Maga, and other widely used police defensive tactics programs. This course will address the most common types of resistance officers encounter, and the techniques needed for the resistance. This course focuses on effective instructional methods that help instructors teach and demonstrate skills in a way that students can easily understand and execute. In addition, we will explore key factors to consider when developing and facilitating a Defensive Tactics (DT) class. As part of the course, students will be required to teach an assigned block of instruction to apply what they've learned. To successfully complete the course, students must pass a pass/fail practical exam and achieve a minimum score of 70% on the written test.

This is the Department of Criminal Justice Law Enforcement Basic Training Academy as mandated by the Kentucky Revised Statutes for peace officer certification. Completing this course will satisfy the training requirements for KRS 15.404 and 15.334, administrative requirements, and participation in the Kentucky Law Enforcement Foundation Program Fund, if eligible.

This course will utilize synchronous, asynchronous, and traditional classroom instruction. The four-week 81.5 hours of online training will be available to the students for one week beginning each Monday. The remaining 18 weeks of training will be conducted in a traditional classroom setting. Week 5 of this course will be a non-training transition week for the students.

During this training course, a law enforcement recruit will be expected to complete physical and cognitive learning tasks, including practical applied assessments and testing, with scores that meet regulated standards. They will also be required to demonstrate the professional expectations of a Kentucky law enforcement officer. To be eligible for graduation, the law enforcement recruit must comply with all Kentucky Administrative Regulations and successfully complete all training areas.

The training areas within this course include the required basic training topics: legal subjects, physical training, defensive tactics, patrol, vehicle operations, firearms, criminal investigations, DUI and field sobriety testing, breath testing, practical evaluations, and tests. For eligible law enforcement recruits, all meals, housing, and classroom materials are provided. Upon successful registration for this course, a detailed list is provided of all requirements that will be needed for training.

Managing a crime scene is more than putting boundary tape up. Crime scene management includes securing the crime scene, searching for evidence, and collecting evidence. In this course, we will discuss these three areas and how they can impact the investigation. A course of action needs to be planned, prioritized, and executed in an organized method. All actions performed need to be documented to help protect the integrity of the evidence found at a crime scene.

Fitness and nutrition should be given top attention by law enforcement officers. Integrating healthy lifestyle choices into a routine will improve officers' performance, safety, and public reputation. Stress, obesity, and chronic body pain all play a major role in early retirement for law enforcement officers. These health concerns can be corrected or alleviated by adopting a healthy lifestyle, which includes being active and eating responsibly.

This course will cover health issues encountered by officers, the basics of starting an exercise routine, and the critical role of nutrition in overall health.

Instruction will be provided in an asynchronous format, allowing the student to complete it at their own pace during a designated time frame. This course will be available for two weeks only. The student must complete and meet the minimum passing criteria on all modules within the given period to receive 8 hours of credit. Partial credit will NOT be given for any portion of this class.

As the Spanish-speaking population in the United States continues to grow, it is essential for law enforcement professionals to develop effective communication skills to better serve and engage with this community. This course is designed to equip officers with fundamental Spanish language skills, including key vocabulary and phrases critical for maintaining safety and conducting official duties.

Participants will learn essential Spanish terms for navigating interactions with Spanish-speaking individuals, identify crucial danger words that signal potential risks, and acquire practical techniques for conducting basic arrests and traffic stops. By enhancing their language proficiency and understanding of cultural nuances, officers will improve their ability to build positive relationships, ensure community safety, and execute their responsibilities more effectively.

This course is designed to enhance the skills of officers to interview sexual assault victims in a trauma-informed manner. The investigation of sexual assault cases can be hindered by the use of interrogation methods that revictimize reporters of sexual assault. Thus, the learning outcome for this course will be to teach police officers how to (a) identify elements of trauma, (b) build rapport and trust with victims, (c) conduct interviews in a manner that will minimize revictimizations, (d) use evidence-based practices (e.g., cognitive interviewing techniques) aimed at triggering memory and enhancing evidence, and (e) apply victim-centered interview skills through an evaluation of simulated interview with standardized actors trained in sexual assault reporting methods.

Instruction will be provided in an asynchronous format, allowing the student to complete it at their own pace during a designated time frame. This course will be available for two weeks only. The student must complete and meet the minimum passing criteria on all modules within the given period to receive 8 hours of credit. Partial credit will NOT be given for any portion of this class.

This course will provide instructors with the necessary skills to teach basic tactical medicine principles that offer recruits and in-service personnel the needed skills to apply lifesaving interventions. This is a highly intense training program requiring a physical demand on the student and consists of lectures, labs, and skill practice. Students will gain the knowledge and skills necessary to mitigate the loss of their life or the life of another while in a dynamic environment. The skills will address treating life-threatening injuries in an austere environment with limited equipment, lack of medically trained personnel, and prolonged time to evacuation.

Tactical Medicine is a systematic approach to dealing with casualties in a tactical environment. It is strongly influenced by the model used by the Department of Defense called Tactical Combat Casualty Care (TCCC). As the name implies, TCCC incorporates tactical problem-solving into any situation in which casualties are incurred from an armed, hostile opponent. The TCCC system focuses on saving “preventable deaths” while achieving three primary goals: Treat the Casualty, Prevent Additional Casualties, and Continue the Mission.

How To Save A Life, Yours! The kind of stress that Public Safety Dispatchers experience is not the garden-variety stress the average person experiences. Fear, helplessness, or horror are just some of the potential emotional responses that come with the job and can have lasting effects. Cumulative stress can affect work performance, work attendance, personal relationships, and social relationships, in addition to presenting a multitude of physical manifestations. Dispatchers for the most part live very unhealthy lives, we eat unhealthy foods, drink unhealthy drinks, sit too long and put ourselves at risk. We will learn to recognize physical symptoms of vicarious trauma and dispatcher self-care. Self-care is an important part of stress management and should be a routine part of healthy living for every 9-1-1 Dispatcher. This class will share some life/health-changing education and techniques to assist in the reduction of stress, improve working relationships and improve morale. We will talk about the resources in place to help dispatchers cope with PTSD, such as peer support and PCIS (Post Critical Incident Seminar).

Given how severe and persistent mental health issues are in first responders, resources should be easily accessible in the workplace. Many workplace environments that house first responders are now moving towards the use of therapy dogs, as they are available throughout the day to aide in therapeutic interaction when needed and are cost effective in treatment of mental and physical health. We will discuss at length the benefits of a therapy dog in the 911 center and the scientific proof behind those benefits. We will go in depth as to how an agency can obtain a therapy dog and provide numerous resources to the students in reference to dog training facilities and experienced handlers. The differences between a therapy dog and a service dog will also be covered. There will be numerous video testimonials from agency heads who have already implemented this program, along with testimonials from employees who have benefited from it.

This course is designed to be an advanced class specifically intended for Academy of Police Supervision graduates. The course will explore values and how agencies of all sizes can achieve greater success through improving the quality of life of their officers as well as the service provided to their communities. The course will scrutinize institutional, occupational, and core values, and explain the importance of alignment of these values; moreover, the course will explain how values influence the officer's moral and ethical decisions. Furthermore, the course will examine the psychological types lacking integrity, the enemies of integrity, and the core virtues of policing. Interpersonal communications will be addressed with a focus on intent, content, listening, and other verbal and non-verbal responses. Additionally, three contemporary models of leadership, Servant, Transactional, and Transformational will be described with identification of the style most used with its rewards and limitations.

While the course is primarily designed for APS graduates, other ranks may be allowed to attend with approval from the Leadership Section Supervisor. Due to the unique nature of this course, attendees will be expected to complete assignments outside of regular classroom hours.
